

Juice List

Last Update: 07/10/15

Juices

Most Require certification. Ready-to-drink juices are made in factories that sometimes produce a wide range of products, mostly with hot production. There may be issues of dairy and non-kosher utensils even if the ingredients state that only a seemingly kosher fruit juice was used.

The following is a short list of some juices that are accepted by the cRc. If you do not see a particular brand or category listed, you should then assume that it would require a reliable hashgacha.

Shelf Stable Juices	Only with a reliable hechsher.
Aseptic Pack Juices	Only with a reliable hechsher.
Refrigerated Juices	Only with a reliable hechsher. Fresh (refrigerated) orange juice should preferably be purchased with reliable kosher certification. If that is not available or there is a particular brand that is considerably lower in price, one may purchase orange juice that is not certified, as long as it does not contain any kosher-sensitive ingredients (e.g. colors, flavors, other juices).
Frozen Juices	All without grape juice or additives are acceptable (citric acid, ascorbic acid, or sugar are acceptable additives for these juices) Pasteurized frozen juices not from concentrate require a reliable hashgacha.
Grape Juice (all varieties)	Only with a reliable hechsher
Powdered Juices	Only with a reliable hechsher
Cranberry Juice and Juice	Only with a reliable hechsher

Coctail
Campbell Tomato Juice	Only with the OU or the Half Moon K
Dole Fresh Juices	Only with a reliable hechsher. Fresh (refrigerated) orange juice should preferably be purchased with reliable kosher certification. If that is not available or there is a particular brand that is considerably lower in price, one may purchase orange juice that is not certified, as long as it does not contain any kosher-sensitive ingredients (e.g. colors, flavors, other juices).
Florida Natural	Only with the OU or the Half Moon K Fresh (refrigerated) orange juice should preferably be purchased with reliable kosher certification. If that is not available or there is a particular brand that is considerably lower in price, one may purchase orange juice that is not certified, as long as it does not contain any kosher-sensitive ingredients (e.g. colors, flavors, other juices).
Jewel	Lemonade & Orange Juice, even without cRc on the label
Lemon Juice	Requires a reliable hashgacha (See Frozen)
Lime Juice	Requires a reliable hashgacha (See Frozen)
Minute Maid	Orange Juice is acceptable
Orange Juice	Fresh (refrigerated) orange juice should preferably be purchased with reliable kosher certification. If that is not available or there is a particular brand that is considerably lower in price, one may purchase orange juice that is not certified, as long as it does not contain any kosher-sensitive ingredients (e.g. colors, flavors, other juices).
Pineapple Juice (Canned)	All not canned in China are acceptable
Pomegranate Juice	Only with a reliable hechsher
Prune Juice	Only with a reliable hechsher (See Sunsweet)
Sunsweet	Prune Juice is acceptable

Tomato Juice	All require a reliable hashgacha
Tropicana	Only with a reliable hechsher. Fresh (refrigerated) orange juice should preferably be purchased with reliable kosher certification. If that is not available or there is a particular brand that is considerably lower in price, one may purchase orange juice that is not certified, as long as it does not contain any kosher-sensitive ingredients (e.g. colors, flavors, other juices).
V8 Juices	Only with the OU or the Half Moon K

#